

Series V: General Correspondence      Section 1: 92nd Street Y (V:01:01) - Byrne, Evelyn B. (V:09:03)

Due to the tremendous size of Series V: General Correspondence in the Marianne Moore collection, this guide has been broken down into several sections to be more user-friendly. Each section remains in alphabetical order and has not been abridged or amended in any way from the original Series V guide. Correspondence from Series Va is incorporated into the guide and denoted in bold font as this folder will not be in consecutive alphabetical order.

Series V Explanatory Description

Marianne Moore's personal and professional correspondence numbers nearly 3,000 files, arranged alphabetically by correspondent or institutional name. Each entry gives the inclusive dates of the correspondence (which often included carbons of Moore's responses, sometimes written on the verso of the letter she received); the number of pieces in the folder (excluding envelopes); and the names of all correspondents.

Each folder has been completely indexed by name. For example, a letter signed by Conrad Aiken and by Henry Steele Commager, filed in the Commager file, can be found under Aiken in the Secondary Name index; Malcom Cowley appears under his own name as well as that of Viking Press. The Series V guide incorporates Series Va (addenda to the correspondence series) in alphabetical order, but users of this guide should also consult the Secondary Names index (not yet digitized) to ensure completeness in their search.

Personal correspondence begins during Marianne Moore's college years at Bryn Mawr, 1905-1909. Among these friends are Margaret (Peggy) James, later Mrs. Bruce Porter, daughter of William James; Margaret Ayer, later Mrs. Cecil Barnes and, as Margaret Ayer Barnes winner of the Pulitzer Prize for fiction; and Marcet Haldeman, later Marcet Haldeman-Julius, editor of the "Little Blue Book" series of condensed classics. These correspondences did not last beyond college years. Katherine G. ("Skip") Ecob became the Class of 1909 alumnae secretary and began to correspond with Moore about 1930. Classmate Frances Browne and her sister Norvelle remained lifelong friends and occasional traveling companions. Fannie Barber (Mrs. Burton Berry) likewise remained in contact.

Several friends from Carlisle, Pennsylvania, wrote to Moore over the years. Elinor Blaine Hays, sometimes called "Honey," was a close family friend who remained in Carlisle. Laura Benet and William Rose Benet were slightly older than Marianne Moore; they visited Carlisle nearly every year through 1912 and stayed with their maternal grandmother, Mrs. Rose, who was employed at the Metzger Institute with Mary Warner Moore. William Rose Benet was a classmate of John Warner Moore at Yale.

The number of letters retained in the archive for a given friend is not necessarily predictive of the importance of a relationship. For example, an eleven-year friendship with Marcia Chamberlain, which ended with Mrs. Chamberlain's death in 1953, is represented by only 62 leaves. In fact, Marianne Moore spent a number of long summer visits at her home in Elsworth, Maine; visited her in Boston during her last illness, and was generously remembered in her will. The surviving letters testify to an important friendship. On the other hand, their mutual friend, Kathrine Jones, is represented by 479 leaves, but the correspondence makes clear that Miss Jones was not nearly as close a friend of Moore as Mrs. Chamberlain.

Two other close friends lived in New York and, presumably, telephoned frequently. Barbara Church (Mrs. Henry Church) returned from Europe after many years in 1950 and Marianne Moore was frequent guest in her home. Louise Crane began to correspond with Moore in 1937, just after her graduation from Vassar College where she was a classmate of Elizabeth Bishop. She had given the letters she received from Moore to the Rosenbach.

Included in this list should be Mary Warner Moore's first cousin, Mary Craig Shoemaker. Letters from Mary Warner Moore to Mrs. Shoemaker are filed with family correspondence (Series VI). Those to and from Marianne Moore are filed under Shoemaker in general correspondence. They can be explored with the correspondence of their niece, Susan Brewer Craig Stauffer, and her great nephew, John Craig Stauffer, and his sister Martha. Taken together, these letters are perhaps the fullest record of Marianne Moore's daily activities other than that found in letters to her brother. The family returned to Marianne Moore letters she had her mother had written to them.

Another important correspondent is Hildegard Lasell Watson, wife of the co-owner of The Dial, James Sibley Watson, Jr. The Watsons lived principally in New York until about 1929 when they returned to their home in Rochester, New York. Mrs. Watson, a concert soprano, an artist, and a well-known hostess, was a woman of position, wealth, and style. Her friendship with Marianne Moore is recorded in more than 1,000 of her letters at the Rosenbach, nearly as many letters from Moore to her (at Bryn Mawr College), and a collection of her personal papers, diaries, and photographs given by her heirs to the Rosenbach in 1987.

Those interested in Marianne Moore's personal (as opposed to professional) friends should consult her correspondence with: Marcia Chamberlain; Barbara Church; Louise Crane; Theresa Eliot; Henry Ware Eliot; Henrietta Fort Holland; Edwin Howard; Edith P. Howard; Kathrine Jones; George Litch Knight; Lester Littlefield; Margaret B. Morison; Chester Page; Laurence Scott; Mary Craig Shoemaker; Susan Stauffer; John Craig and Martha Stauffer; Bernard Waldman; and Hildegard Watson.

Professional correspondence with other writers begins about 1915, the year Marianne Moore first published poetry in little magazines. Moore retained carbon copies of most of her professional correspondence; occasionally a draft, often written on the back of a letter or envelope, survives. H.D. wrote in September 1915 to renew her acquaintance. She had known Moore slightly at Bryn Mawr and had last seen her on May Day, 1906. William Rose Benet evoked several letters about literature, and William Carlos Williams began to correspond in 1916. Ezra Pound began his more than half-century of exchanges with Marianne Moore about 1918. T.S. Eliot first wrote in 1921 after Moore had reviewed The sacred wood in The Dial. Her letters to Wallace Stevens in this collection date from 1933, although she began to write to him from The Dial in 1926.

Letters written by Moore and those she received as editor at The Dial (1925-1929) are in The Dial Collection at the Beinecke Library, Yale University; and among the papers of James Sibley Watson, Jr., in the Berg Collection at the New York Public Library. An exception is the file of letters from George Saintsbury which includes Moore's drafts of her letters as well as her transcriptions of Saintsbury's very difficult hand—these are at the Rosenbach. A few other letters directly concerned with The Dial appear in this collection in the files of James Sibley Watson, Jr. and Scofield Thayer.

Many writers whom Marianne Moore first knew professionally became personal friends, as the correspondence attests; among them are Elizabeth Bishop, first sent as a young poet to visit Moore;

Kenneth Burke, an associate at The Dial; and Monroe Wheeler, the publisher of "Marriage." Harry Levin and Malcolm Cowley corresponded about her translations of the Fables of La Fontaine in the 1940s and 1950s.

In addition, Moore corresponded with editors of little magazines, such as Morton Dauwen Zabel (Poetry), Floyd Dell (The Masses), Lincoln Kirstein (Hound & Horn), Robert Herring (Life and Letters Today), Charles Henri Ford (View), Thomas Carter (Shenandoah), and many others. The fact that only one letter from Harriet Monroe, founder of Poetry and Marianne Moore's first American publisher, and only one letter from Harriet Shaw Weaver, editor of the Egoist and Moore's first British publisher, survive in this collection suggests that Moore threw out much of her earliest correspondence. It would appear that beginning in about 1916, she made an effort to save correspondence from her literary acquaintances, even eventually numbering the envelopes in her file. One lacuna in the correspondence has been found to be in another institution: Moore's letters from T.S. Eliot from the early 1950s are to be found at the Humanities Research Center, the University of Texas, Austin.

Professional correspondents significantly represented in the collection are: W.H. Auden; Laura Benet; Elizabeth Bishop; Louise Bogan; Bryher; Kenneth Burke; Malcolm Cowley; E.E. Cummings; H.D.; Babette Deutsch; T.S. Eliot; Wallace Fowle; Jean Garrigue; Alyse Gregory; Malvina Hoffman; Edward McKnight Kauffer; Lincoln Kirstein; James Laughlin; Harry Levin; Elizabeth Mayer; F.V. Morley; Robert Andrew Parker; George Plimpton; Ezra Pound; I.A. Richards; George Saintsbury; Mary Sarton; Edith and Osbert Sitwell; Wallace Stevens; Scofield Thayer; James Sibley Watson, Jr.; Monroe Wheeler; William Carlos Williams; Yvor Winters; Morton Dauwen Zabel; and Louis Zukofsky.
