

Series XI: Financial Records

The files in this series are divided among real estate records, insurance, wills, bills and receipts, taxes, bank statements, and investments.

Marianne Moore's family has a small inheritance from her grandfather, the Rev. John Riddle Warner, who died in 1894. This fund, help by a Pittsburgh firm, was presumably supplemented after 1896 by Mart Warner's salary as a teacher at the Metzger Institute in Carlisle, PA. Principle from this investment was used, at least in part, to pay for college tuition for Marianne Moore and her brother. Other sources of income for the Moores were John Warner's salary as a prep-school teacher (1909-1911), assistant pastor (1914-1916), pastor (1916-1917), Navy chaplain (1917-1946), and as chaplain at the Gunnery School, Washington, CT. Marianne Moore's income consisted of her salary as secretary to Melvil Dewey (1910_ and as a teacher at the U.S Indian School, Carlisle (1911-1914); payment for prose and poetry (never more than minimal; e.g., The Dial paid $2 per "Briefer Mention" review, 2 cents a word for prose, $20 a page for poetry; 1915-1972); royalties from books (never substantial; 1921-1972); salaries as part-time assistant at the Hudson Park Branch, New York Public Library (1920-1925) and editor of The Dial (May 1925-July 1929); occasional classes given at Bryn Mawr and elsewhere (1930s and onward); gifts from friends, such as Bryher and the Watsons (1930s onward); reading manuscripts for Macmillan (1940s-early 1950s); and literary awards.

Among the wills in this series, some of those interest concern Bryher, Marcia Chamberlain, Malvina Hoffman, Marianne Moore, Mary Warner Moore, and Morton Dauwen Zabel.
